At Northeastern, endowed funds are vital to ensuring the university’s distinctiveness and permanence. This stable funding empowers us to surmount the challenges of today and the future, and enables our colleges and schools to deepen their ability to innovate—and ultimately, strengthen their impact on our students, our faculty, and our world.

Endowments assure, for generations to come, that talented students can pursue a first-class education and life-changing experiential opportunities. They serve as essential recruiting tools, growing the university’s population of renowned faculty who are teachers, researchers, mentors, and game changers. And they are powerful vehicles for foresighted donors who understand the importance of supporting a meaningful endeavor in perpetuity—and who want to give it the benefit of their philanthropy.

You may endow the scholarship, academic initiative, or research direction most meaningful to you. Endowments can be named after the donor—or in honor or memory of a loved one—and be funded now through an outright donation, or in the future through a multi-year commitment, bequest, or life income gift.

To learn more about establishing an endowment, contact:

Luanne Kirwin
Vice President of Development
617.373.4296
l.kirwin@northeastern.edu
At Northeastern, endowed funds are vital to ensuring the university’s distinctiveness and permanence. This stable funding empowers us to surmount the challenges of today and the future, and enables our colleges and schools to deepen their ability to innovate—and ultimately, strengthen their impact on our students, our faculty, and our world.

Endowments assure, for generations to come, that talented students can pursue a first-class education and life-changing experiential opportunities. They serve as essential recruiting tools, growing the university’s population of renowned faculty who are teachers, researchers, mentors, and game changers. And they are powerful vehicles for foresighted donors who understand the importance of supporting a meaningful endeavor in perpetuity—and who want to give it the benefit of their philanthropy.

You may endow the scholarship, academic initiative, or research direction most meaningful to you. Endowments can be named after the donor—or in honor or memory of a loved one—and be funded now through an outright donation, or in the future through a multi-year commitment, bequest, or life income gift.

To learn more about establishing an endowment, contact:

Luanne Kirwin
Vice President of Development
617.373.4296
l.kirwin@northeastern.edu
Undergraduate Scholarships

Our university is a magnet for the most gifted students in the United States and around the world. We strive to keep a Northeastern education affordable for all students, and scholarships and financial aid are a top priority. Endowment support ensures that deserving, ambitious undergraduates have access to opportunity, and this permanent stream of funding facilitates transformative academic and experiential pursuits.

You may fund an endowed scholarship through any gift vehicle, including outright gifts (cash, securities, and real estate) and planned giving instruments. Consider establishing a scholarship to forever tie your name to our exceptional students, or supporting an existing initiative such as the Torch Scholars Program.
Research

Northeastern has a distinguished history of focusing on applied research, translational research, and the intersection of the two. To keep investigation and knowledge creation flourishing at the university, we must continue building on our existing areas of strength—from drug

Graduate Fellowships

Fellowships help Northeastern recruit and retain the best graduate students, who are the engines of university-based research. Endowed fellowships attract graduate students in established and emerging disciplines, and this direct aid enables these students to conduct their research or studies without needing to raise extra income, repay loans, or assume overwhelming debt.

By endowing a fellowship, you will give Northeastern's graduate students the freedom to pursue an innovative education and interdisciplinary investigation. Funds may be used toward tuition, stipends, or materials, allowing fellows to devote themselves full time to their work. A fellowship provides income year after year—even when economic and political fluctuations affect other revenue sources.
discovery to urban health policy, from resilience to renewable energy.

You can help power investigation and discovery at Northeastern by funding priorities such as research that may lead to federal grants; new degree programs in emerging disciplines; modern education-delivery technology so students can learn onsite and online; and upgrading facilities and equipment.
Capital Improvements

The spaces in which our students, faculty, and staff study, explore, and collaborate profoundly influence their day-to-day activities—and their ability to not only achieve excellence, but to tackle today’s most pressing challenges. To do their best work and achieve their goals, they require classrooms, labs, meeting spaces, and other areas that foster cross-disciplinary communication and partnership.

You may support capital projects and facility improvements that not only enrich student life, but strengthen the research and teaching capabilities of Northeastern’s faculty. As technology rapidly evolves, resources to modernize spaces and fund new equipment will further the university’s commitment to global engagement and our leadership in use-inspired research.