“Northeastern was a Lifesaver for Me”
Aug 7, 2019

In 1984, Milliardaire Syverain was in the midst of a grueling journey—one that looked like it wasn’t going to end well.

Soon after arriving in this country from Haiti at age 19, his parents abandoned him. He was living in public housing at the foot of Mission Hill and his job prospects were bleak. That’s when he found a flier on his doorstep, inviting residents of Boston public housing to apply for You Made Northeastern’s 3rd Annual Giving Day Spectacular!
Apr 19, 2019

A special thank you to all of our alumni, parents, students, faculty, staff, and friends. Your enthusiasm and energy make even our most ambitious dreams possible for Northeastern every day, and Giving Day 2019 was no exception. You helped bring in 14,119 gifts, which are sure to have a lasting effect on this university.

read more
One Scholar’s Dream Opens Doors for Others
Mar 12, 2019

To honor Bill Simonetti’s passion for teaching, Mary and his brother James Simonetti established the William P. Simonetti Scholarship at the College of Professional Studies to support students pursuing careers in elementary and secondary education.

read more
Northeastern Establishes the Khoury College of Computer Sciences
Dec 17, 2018

Northeastern University is naming its fastest-growing college the Khoury College of Computer and Information Sciences in honor of alumnus and trustee Amin Khoury.

read more

This Entrepreneurial Award Came from the Heart
Nov 14, 2018

Thermo Electron, a Boston-based company run by two brothers from Greece, invested 20 years in research and development before its landmark invention of an artificial heart in the 1980s.

read more
What Can You Learn from Uneven Bars, a Magazine, and a Good Pair of Shoes?

Nov 7, 2018

In a world that is increasingly connected, that is increasingly reliant upon artificial intelligence, that is politically fractured, success has become a measure of how dynamic you can be, how nimble you are when faced with change, and how open you are to lifelong learning.

read more
Northeastern, Industry, and Government Leaders Hail New Grant That Will Help Increase Diversity in STEM

Oct 24, 2018

As our society becomes more digital and connected, the disciplines of science, technology, engineering, and math will become increasingly intertwined with every aspect of work.

read more
Samuel Altschuler, MBA’58, Looks Back on 60 Years as a Husky Alumnus
Oct 12, 2018

Northeastern has been a very important part of Sam and Nancy Jo Altschuler’s lives. Sixty years ago, in 1958, Sam received his MBA degree from Northeastern with Nancy Jo at his side.

read more

Northeastern Students Earn Fellowships to Advance UN Sustainable Development Goals
Aug 17, 2018

Twenty Northeastern students have been named recipients of a global fellowship program.

read more
Northeastern Hosts Global Leadership Summit in Paris
Jul 2, 2018
Trends in innovation and disruption, as well as the effect of rapid changes in the international landscape of higher education, were the themes as Northeastern hosted its inaugural Global Leadership Summit in Paris last week.
read more « Older Entries