Through lessons learned in competition and in the classroom, the Department of Athletics and Recreation helps Northeastern’s student-athletes cultivate health, determination, and achievement in their physical, academic, and professional lives.

We are empowering them to achieve excellence by recruiting coaches of the highest caliber, devising innovative training methods, enriching our leadership development curriculum and academic support programs, and expanding facilities for competition and recreation.

By supporting the Department of Athletics and Recreation, you will help:

Build all facets of our program, from leadership development to facilities, and enable student-athletes to compete at the highest levels in Division I athletics
Instill leadership and competition through club sports, and a lifelong commitment to physical activity through recreation
Recruit and retain exceptional coaches, who challenge student-athletes to fulfill their athletic and academic potential and help nurture their personal development

We welcome your support of our student-athletes and coaches as they strive for victory, and as they aim to achieve their personal best.
Through lessons learned in competition and in the classroom, the Department of Athletics and Recreation helps Northeastern’s student-athletes cultivate health, determination, and achievement in their physical, academic, and professional lives.

We are empowering them to achieve excellence by recruiting coaches of the highest caliber, devising innovative training methods, enriching our leadership development curriculum and academic support programs, and expanding facilities for competition and recreation.

By supporting the Department of Athletics and Recreation, you will help:

- Build all facets of our program, from leadership development to facilities, and enable student-athletes to compete at the highest levels in Division I athletics
- Instill leadership and competition through club sports, and a lifelong commitment to physical activity through recreation
Recruit and retain exceptional coaches, who challenge student-athletes to fulfill their athletic and academic potential and help nurture their personal development.

We welcome your support of our student-athletes and coaches as they strive for victory, and as they aim to achieve their personal best.
To learn more about supporting the Department of Athletics and Recreation, contact:

Owen Devine
Director of Development
617.373.2445
o.devine@northeastern.edu